	At this winery visit, the positive aspect was that we were able to have the winery tour and brief explanation about their vineyard. But the negative aspect in my opinion was that the toilet was outside of the tasting room which was freezingly cold
The winery Pernerstorfer was the very first winery visits our group had but also the best one with the most positive impressions. We had a tour, tastings, but also, a friendly atmosphere. The owner opened a lot of new wine bottles just for the tastings and were able to talk both German and English. We know most Austrian wineries; the owners cannot talk English very well.	POINTS OF ATTENTION: Selection of wines: 😊 Friendliness and know-how of staff: 😊 Pricing: 😊 Wine Quality: 😊 Overall impression: 😊
	The lady of this winery was very friendly and explained us a lot about her winery and the region. After all, she gave us free wines to support our wine education. The only issue was that she could not speak English, so our classmate had to translate her
At the winery Proidl, the whole tasting room temperature was perfectly warm, the lady was very kind and friendly and talkative although she was not able to speak English, since we did not have a winery tour, she brought a map to show her vineyards and the regions atmosphere. At that winery, we tasted a lot of wines there, she did not stop pouring the wines 😊.	POINTS OF ATTENTION: Selection of wines: 😊 Friendliness and know-how of staff: 😊 Pricing: 😊 Wine Quality: 😊 Overall impression: 😊
	The interior and the tasting room was beautiful designed, and the chairs were all separated so we could easily move. For some wineries there were benches. But the room temperature was too cold, we had to wear our jackets. It was not easy to drink in the cold.
The winery Setzer is a family owned winery but a quite big company. Overall, the lady of Setzer was very polite and was able to explain or talk in English. There was sometimes the awkwardness during the tasting like she was stressed to talk with us. We could not have the winery tour because of the danger of oxidized air.	POINTS OF ATTENTION: Selection of wines: 😊 Friendliness and know-how of staff: 😊 Pricing: 😊 Wine Quality: 😊 Overall impression: 😊
My recommendation for the perfect winery visit is to be prepared and make sure to email them before visiting a winery. It is very important to ask about the tastings and the tour, if it is possible. Make sure that the people can speak other languages like English for the international students who are not German speakers. Furthermore, it is important to know if there is a tasting fee or not. For wine students, it would be fundamental if they should not pay anything for a wine tasting unless they would buy a bottle of wine.
